Californians' Health Care in Good Hands Thanks to Community Health Centers

Every August, health centers around the nation receive honors and acclaim for their passion to provide local communities with quality and accessible health care services. This year, to coincide with National Health Center Week in August, Health Net gave more than $55,000 to various Community Health Centers throughout California.

Community Health Centers are a vital part of our health care system, serving as primary care providers for millions of people in underserved and low-income communities. These centers offer a wide range of services that include:

- Medical
- Dental
- Mental health
- Preventive care

This makes them a valued resource to help maintain overall health and wellbeing.

We truly value the work that health centers – their staff, board members and supporters – do for the health of communities throughout California and the U.S. Our support for National Health Center Week allows us to not only recognize the importance of these Community Health Centers, but to also give back and invest in their continued success.
